Mr. L. W. Booker,
21 West 65th St.,
New York City, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Booker:

I am endeavoring to get up a genealogical record of the Booker family of America. I am a descendant of Martha Marshall Booker, who married Robert Collier on May 5, 1806 in the State of Georgia. The Booker and Collier families came from Virginia to Georgia just after the Revolution. I knew my great-grandmother in person when I was a child, but my great-grandfather died before I was born.

I am also in correspondence with Miss Betty Booker, of University Virginia. The Booker family before the Revolution lived around Petersburg and in that section. The Colliers lived up and down the James River.

The first Collier that came from England to America was Issac, who was the great-grandfather of Robert who married Martha Marshall Booker.

If you have the time, would appreciate your giving me all the information you can, going even as far back in England as possible.

Thanking you in advance, I beg to remain

Respectfully yours,
